

Christopher B. Welker

Business Unit Director, Network and Infrastructures Solutions
Northrop Grumman Technology Services

Chris Welker is the Business Unit Director for the Network and Infrastructure Solutions (NIS) Business Unit. Chris is responsible for the overall performance and growth of the NIS program portfolio and for ensuring that we deliver high-quality products and services to our customers. The NIS unit is a premier provider of mission-critical network and IT infrastructure solutions and services to the Federal Government and many state governments. Mr. Welker has held a variety of executive positions within Northrop Grumman ranging from operational, business development/marketing, and Sector Staff. He served as a group director of infrastructure managed services and an operating unit director of information technology services.

A native Californian, Mr. Welker graduated from the University of California, Los Angeles (BA and MS) and moved to Northern Virginia 15 years ago. Mr. Welker is active in the community and serves on the Boards of Directors of Celebrate Fairfax, Helping Children Worldwide, and Connections for Hope. He also has completed a number of executive leadership development programs including Darden School of Management, MIT Sloan School and the University of Chicago.